Salford Foundation Announces New Homelessness Prevention Project for Men at ‘Nationwide Community Grants’

Salford Foundation has received a grant of £50,000 from Nationwide as part of their Community Grants programme, which brings their members and colleagues together to help tackle the housing crisis.

Phil East, Chief Executive of Salford Foundation said: “We’re delighted to be partnering with Nationwide. This grant will help to reduce the risk of men in Salford experiencing homelessness, by giving them access to preventative support to overcome a range of challenges and remain in their homes.”

Britain’s biggest building society has run its Community Grants programme since 2017 – offering grants of up to £60,000 to local charities and projects, particularly those focussed on housing. This year, it’s awarded a total of £5.1 million to 105 housing related projects across the UK.

Kirsty Hall, Social Investment Manager at Nationwide Building Society, said: “Helping local communities and charities is at the heart of what it means to be a building society for Nationwide. We are pleased our Community Grants programme is going to make a difference through this £50,000 grant to Salford Foundation helping them make a difference to the lives of those who rely on their services.”

Over the last six years, Nationwide Building Society has awarded £27 million to housing charities up and down the UK, helping make lives better for almost 148,800 people.
